

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko

With Glen Giffney, Piano

Alphabetti Theatre, Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Thursday, October 8, 2015

Greetings, Welcome. The new Labour leader and his Chancellor are being portrayed as people who are dangerous for British security, bad for British business. We are told that unabashed socialists live in an idealistic, unrealistic “cloud cuckoo land”, and should leave the real politicians to run the economy, the country and the world, and that it (and we) will be safe in their hands. Such were the pronouncements being made at the Tory Party conference, which (thankfully) ended yesterday. I distinctly remember hearing mention being made in the Prime Minister’s speech too - about a vision of a “Greener Britain”. The news today that a second solar energy company in a week has gone bust, partly due to the Government’s removal of renewable energy subsidies, will at best be seen as a “minor blip”, of course. That coming on the back of recent news of the loss of thousands of steel jobs not far away in Sunderland, one can perhaps be allowed a little scepticism, and a keener readiness to listen at this point to Jeremy Corbyn and those members of his team and the thousands of supporters that agree with him, whatever criticism or ridicule is levelled at them. Thanks to the fact that he has stated categorically that he would not use nuclear weapons were he to become Prime Minister, and that he favours dialogue with opponents as opposed to war, he was even called “unpatriotic” and “terrorist-loving” from the conference platform, and to a world audience, to add insult to injury. Mr. Corbyn is beginning to get a little dose of what Paul Robeson went through in his time, for holding similar views, and being as brave, if not braver in stating them, regardless of the risks to his career and personal life. The urgent calls for peace, justice and equality that he made in his day clearly remain unheeded, so it falls on the rest of us to cut through the false rhetoric of many of our leaders and continue the work that Robeson and those like him did. A crucial part of it is knowing whose side the media bosses and certain politicians are on, and to tell as many as will listen where the real truth lies. I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked previously as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. He has fronted orchestras as baritone soloist in concert halls, and has also performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON has won numerous awards at festivals in the UK and Canada, as well as highly favourable reviews in the press – most notably in the Guardian and on BBC Radio 4. He has toured the play around the UK, the USA, Canada, Jamaica and Nigeria, and at New York’s Carnegie Hall in February 2012 on his 50th birthday. He also delivers a lecture/concert called PAUL ROBESON – THE GIANT, IN A NUTSHELL, and another one titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with spirituals has been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool’s International Slavery Museum. His 15-minute play, HALF MOON, which also deals with ancient Africa has been performed several times in the UK. He recently developed a piece titled WHAT HAPPENS? featuring the writings of African American Langston Hughes, for performance with live jazz accompaniment. He has been published in The Guardian, The Morning Star, NERVE Magazine, Modern Ghana and Searchlight Magazine. He is currently working on a new play.

Glen Giffney, Piano. Glen trained at Chetham’s School of Music in Manchester, and then at the Royal Northern College of Music. He has been involved in numerous prestigious competitions throughout the UK and performed at the European Piano Teachers association in Belgium. He was a finalist in the Keldwyth Award held here in the Lake District. Although classically trained, Jazz has always been a passion in Glen’s life and he is currently furthering his career as a Jazz musician.
