

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Michael Conliffe, Piano

Dundee Rep Theatre. Thursday March 29, 2012

Greetings and Welcome. A young man was jailed for life in Sarasota, Florida yesterday, for the senseless murder of two young Brits who had wandered mistakenly into a poor black area. Justice has been done. In the same state, in a town called Sanford, a teenager was gunned down in February. His killer is known, and was in fact talking to the police as he was following the boy, who “looked suspicious” to him. Over a month later, the murderer has still not been arrested or charged. The fact that the victim was black and the killer white has resurrected the issue of racial profiling, unequal and insensitive policing, showing that the country that elected its first ever Black President recently still has quite a bit of growing up to do. Celebrities of all colours are joining in the cries of outrage. Back in the 1940s, Paul Robeson audaciously sent his white President an angry telegram protesting the lynching of Black men, and also accused his government of genocide against his people. Few celebrities joined him in that protest then, nor in many of the progressive causes that he championed to the detriment of his career. As we lament the loss of life of those three young men in Florida, we remember the thousands whose lives continue to be wasted in the senseless wars our governments are prosecuting around the world, and the innocent people being slaughtered by tyrannical regimes sustained by our leaders, who insist that cuts have to be made to services like health, education, the environment, or the arts. Paul Robeson would have stood with those who rise up today and refuse to accept the status quo, be they trade unionists or “occupiers”, regardless of the ridicule and criticism directed at them. He would call on the rest of us to join in too, so that our youngsters (including those who look like Trayvon Martin) can grow up in safety, knowing that they too can achieve what Paul Robeson did and maybe also become President (or even Prime Minister!) one day. I hope you enjoy show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer, Producer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked until recently as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. As a baritone, he has sung as soloist in British concert halls accompanied by orchestra, and has also sung in Germany, Ireland and Nigeria. He has performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON won the Argus Angel Award for Artistic Excellence and Best Male Performer Award at the 2008 Brighton Festival Fringe, and two Merit Awards for Excellence in London in 2010. He has performed the play around the UK, the United States of America, Canada and Nigeria, and at New York’s Carnegie Hall in February 2012 for his 50th birthday. His other piece titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with Spirituals has also been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool’s International Slavery Museum. A song from his CD, RECALLING ROBESON is featured as the July 2008 song of the month on the Labor Notes website.

Michael Conliffe, Piano and original incidental music

Mike started playing piano by ear as child, playing gospel in church and later discovering Jazz, which he went on to study at Liverpool Community College and Leeds college of Music. As well as playing regularly in Jazz festivals round the UK, Mike has toured both coasts of America with Call Mr Robeson, culminating in the February 2012 performance at Carnegie Hall with Tayo. Mike also performs in another two-hander, a Jazz drama God Bless the Child about Billie Holliday, in which he also acts. He plays regularly as soloist and with Swing and Function bands at weddings, other celebrations and at corporate events. Mike also teaches piano to aspiring Pop, Blues and Jazz musicians and to singer/song writers.
