

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Dennis Nelson, Piano
Lackland Center, Centenary College, Hackettstown, NJ. Saturday, Nov 14, 2015

Greetings, Welcome. Last night's horrific scenes from Paris have shaken the world to the core. The war in Syria has now reached the heart of Europe. By extension, no part of the West is safe from the repercussions of the Middle East wars, and only a few weeks ago, Russia also fell victim to another successful terrorist attack. It was interesting to see the US Secretary of State today standing shoulder-to-shoulder with the Russian Foreign Minister to condemn the attacks, and vowing to work together to combat this new global threat. Between those two countries, untold billions have been spent on prosecuting wars in far-flung parts of the world, and people will have differing views as to which nation is more culpable for the deaths of millions – innocent victims of “super-power games.” Seeing those two men together, one could for a moment pause from such arguments and maybe see this as another opportunity for them to recognise that they (and the rest of the world) share a common interest – peaceful coexistence. Last night's attacks have been coming, not for months or years, but for decades, and world leaders and the rest of us need much help in understanding what has led up to this, and what can be done about it. What is clear is that decades of militarism have not only failed to quell terrorism, but have in fact fuelled it. At a time like this, it is difficult to hear the pleas of those who caution against increasing military strikes, and not to dismiss them as dreamy idealists. John Lennon's Imagine comes to mind at this point, as will many other peace songs – many sung by Paul Robeson, who, over half a century ago repeatedly called for friendship between the USA and the Soviet Union, but was vilified for doing so. It is perhaps not too much of a dream to imagine those two powerful men standing side-by-side, not announcing a devastating (but ultimately futile) military response, but the decision to try one weapon that they have neglected for far too long: one that is sure to win the hearts and minds of people of all nations, to reveal our shared humanity, our shared history and future. As Paul Robeson said, “I use my art as a weapon in defence of my people – and all oppressed people of the world.” In Peace.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked previously as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. He has fronted orchestras as baritone soloist in concert halls, and has also performed lead roles in operas and musicals including Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON has won numerous awards at festivals in the UK and Canada, as well as highly favourable reviews in the press – most notably in the Guardian and on BBC Radio 4. He has toured the play around the UK, the USA, Canada, Jamaica and Nigeria, and at New York's Carnegie Hall in February 2012 on his 50th birthday. He also delivers a lecture/concert called PAUL ROBESON – THE GIANT, IN A NUTSHELL, and another one titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with spirituals has been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool's International Slavery Museum. His 15-minute play, HALF MOON, which also deals with ancient Africa has been performed several times in the UK. He recently developed a piece titled WHAT HAPPENS? featuring the writings of African American Langston Hughes, for performance with live jazz accompaniment. He has been published in The Guardian, The Morning Star, NERVE Magazine, Modern Ghana and Searchlight Magazine. He is currently working on a new play.

Dennis A. Nelson, Piano. Dennis Nelson studied music at the Brooklyn Conservatory of Music and is a graduate of Hofstra University. He serves as organist and choir director for Trinity Baptist Church in Brooklyn, and accompanist for the New York City Labor Chorus, in addition to accompanying various soloists and choirs. He is also a member of The New Hope Ensemble, a gospel/jazz quintet, and Instrumental Sounds Of Praise (ISOP), a gospel big band aggregation. His songs have been recorded by noted gospel and R&B singers, and he has several recording credits as keyboardist and writer.
