

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Michael Conliffe, Piano

Hawth Studio, Crawley. Monday, 22 October, 2012.

Greetings and Welcome. Often, politicians, the police, the army and the media (sometimes in collusion) try to restrict what information reaches us, and for how long. Recent examples include Hillsborough, the Iraq and Afghanistan wars, the 1980s miners' strike, which labelled those fighting to protect their jobs and livelihoods as violent thugs, and the Mau Mau of Kenya, who, sixty years later have been given leave to sue the British Government for atrocities perpetrated against them during their independence struggle. Another news item caught my attention recently, though it has since disappeared, and that was the death of George McGovern yesterday. Who? He ran for president of the USA in 1972, and received a "shelacking" – the worst defeat in history. The sad thing is that his main platform was the ending of the Vietnam war, and he also called Richard Nixon the most corrupt politician in the U.S. Still, Nixon won, and the rest, as they say, is history. McGovern was unknown to me until his impending death was reported on the internet station DemocracyNow.org (check it out!) and I thought, "what an incredible man", and what a loss to American and world history that his urgent message was ignored in his lifetime. That of course was the fate of Paul Robeson, who was labelled a danger to America for calling for peace, justice and workers' rights. Hundreds of thousands made a similar call last Saturday at the protest marches organised by Trade Unionis objecting to the cuts being imposed on public services because of the economic mess we are in. They called for a Robin Hood Tax, an end to wars, bankers' bonuses to be taxed, and some called for a general strike. They argue that if people don't fight now, they may find themselves being forced to accept the even harsher measures being visited on the Greeks, Spanish in the near future. More people need to join the fight, and Robeson's story will surely inspire more to do so. I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer, Producer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked until recently as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. As a baritone, he has sung as soloist in British concert halls accompanied by orchestra, and has also sung in Germany, Ireland and Nigeria. He has performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON won the Argus Angel Award for Artistic Excellence and Best Male Performer Award at the 2008 Brighton Festival Fringe, two Merit Awards for Excellence in London in 2010 and three awards at the London Ontario Fringe last June. He has performed the play around the UK, the United States of America, Canada and Nigeria, and at New York's Carnegie Hall in February 2012 for his 50th birthday. His other piece titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with Spirituals has also been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool's International Slavery Museum. A song from his CD, RECALLING ROBESON is featured as the July 2008 song of the month on the Labor Notes website.

Michael Conliffe, Piano and original incidental music

Mike started playing piano by ear as child, playing gospel in church and later discovering Jazz, which he went on to study at Liverpool Community College and Leeds college of Music. As well as playing regularly in Jazz festivals round the UK, Mike has toured both coasts of America with Call Mr Robeson, culminating in the February 2012 performance at Carnegie Hall with Tayo. Mike also performs in another two-hander, a Jazz drama God Bless the Child about Billie Holliday, in which he also acts. He plays regularly as soloist and with Swing and Function bands at weddings, other celebrations and at corporate events. Mike also teaches piano to aspiring Pop, Blues and Jazz musicians and to singer/song writers.
