

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Colin Hazel Piano

Mumford Theatre, Cambridge, Saturday October 4, 2014.

Greetings, Welcome. Another Brit was beheaded yesterday in the Middle East, by a group of fanatics that include at least one of his compatriots. Their action is said to be a response to the areal bombardment of the extremists' positions in the desert, wherever they may be. Our leaders have promised to bring them to justice, so let's hope that happens sooner rather than later. Clearly, air strikes aren't going to do this, so they may have to rely on one or more of the people among the extremists to reconnect with their conscience and humanity and give the others up. It would be another illustration of the fact that militarism is not always the way to solve conflict, and if hearts and minds are to be won, it is easier to do so with much more peaceful ways. Art is one way, and Paul Robeson always said that his art was his own weapon in the defence of people. He also used it to great effect to demonstrate love among peoples. For a fraction of what is spent on war, a tremendous amount can be done to bring peace. Also for a fraction of the cost of maybe just one fighter plane, there may be enough money to pay for thousands of doctors, nurses and others to help out in West Africa where Ebola I wreaking havoc. It has become clear at last that the problem is not confined to West Africa, and even if we consider ourselves selfish in only getting really serious about the problem when the disease started to cross the Atlantic, it has certainly brought it home to us that the human family cannot look on when their African brothers and sisters are suffering. This was always Paul Robeson's message – one that the Establishment chose to ignore and silence, but his voice is resounding to us loud and clear again today: “Man in White skin will never be free while his Black brother is in slavery. When we and our leaders devote more time to spreading peace and justice in our society and around the world, we might finally begin to prevent young Brits and others from being so disaffected with their lot that they go and join terrorist organisations in other parts of the world. I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer, Producer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked previously as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. He has fronted orchestras as baritone soloist in concert halls, and has also performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON has won numerous awards at festivals in the UK and Canada, as well as highly favourable reviews in the press – most notably in the Guardian and on BBC Radio 4. He has toured the play around the UK, the USA, Canada, Jamaica and Nigeria, and at New York's Carnegie Hall in February 2012 on his 50th birthday. He also delivers a lecture/concert called PAUL ROBESON – THE GIANT, IN A NUTSHELL, and another one titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with spirituals has been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool's International Slavery Museum. His 15-minute play, HALF MOON, which also deals with ancient Africa has been performed several times in the UK. He recently developed a piece titled WHAT HAPPENS? featuring the writings of African American Langston Hughes, for performance with live jazz accompaniment.
