

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Colin Hazel Piano

The Place, Bedford, Thursday October 9, 2014.

Greetings, Welcome. It is only a matter of time before the first Ebola case reaches these shores. This will almost certainly give the supporters of UKIP and similar parties what they consider greater justification for their view that the United Kingdom's borders should be closed, certainly to people who look like me, or come from my part of the world – Nigeria. They are also concerned about the amount of immigration from Eastern Europe, because, even though they are also white, they see them as taking British jobs and living off the British State. It really is quite disturbing that with views like those, they are generating growing levels of support among the British public. Still, they might be interested in a plan that might solve problems here and in West Africa simultaneously. The Ebola crisis has highlighted the fact that in Africa there is a woeful lack of provision in the medical field. Very few doctors and nurses per head of population, and poor facilities. Many West African medics at all levels are in this part of the world, where their skills are more rewarding, and where life is that bit easier, despite the loneliness and the cold. Now that the threat across the oceans is now seen to be real, this is an opportunity for a Marshall-Plan-type effort not just to tackle the immediate crisis, but also to develop the health sector in West Africa. Billions of pounds will be spent. Thousands of volunteers and paid personnel will be sent over. There are already a great many West Africans working in the NHS, and many (UKIP would say all) of them would be at the forefront of the new herculean effort (assuming the White Saviours allow them to assume prominent positions, which they don't here) and that would achieve the dual effort of stemming the Ebola crisis, improving West African Health Services, and “getting rid” of many immigrants from these shores. Ah, but how will the NHS cope with the mass emigration of Africans? It would surely collapse? I'm no politician, and I don't have all the answers, but I recognise an opportunity for positive change when I see it. Embracing Paul Robeson and his ideas represent such an opportunity. I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer, Producer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked previously as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. He has fronted orchestras as baritone soloist in concert halls, and has also performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON has won numerous awards at festivals in the UK and Canada, as well as highly favourable reviews in the press – most notably in the Guardian and on BBC Radio 4. He has toured the play around the UK, the USA, Canada, Jamaica and Nigeria, and at New York's Carnegie Hall in February 2012 on his 50th birthday. He also delivers a lecture/concert called PAUL ROBESON – THE GIANT, IN A NUTSHELL, and another one titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with spirituals has been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool's International Slavery Museum. His 15-minute play, HALF MOON, which also deals with ancient Africa has been performed several times in the UK. He recently developed a piece titled WHAT HAPPENS? featuring the writings of African American Langston Hughes, for performance with live jazz accompaniment. He is currently a Writer On Attachment with the Liverpool Everyman and Playhouse Theatres.
