

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Michael Conliffe, Piano
Royal Exchange Theatre, Manchester, November 18, 2012.

Greetings and Welcome.. My favourite and most memorable theatrical experience ever took place right here in this theatre, when I saw Lorraine Hansberry's Les Blancs in 2001 (due a revival, methinks!). Set in a fictional African colony the tension arose as the inevitable violent revolution approached, as actually happened in most cases. Those whose land had been seized by the settlers were labelled terrorists in the media back in Europe. Paul Robeson was one of the first African Americans to openly support independence movements – as far back as the 1930s, and even then included South Africa, where that famous terrorist, Nelson Mandela would eventually become the first democratically elected Prime Minister! Robeson was very much out of step with public opinion in his time, and would probably be so today, were he to similarly support a people fighting occupation and Apartheid in their home. That is the case in Palestine, where the might of the American- and Western-backed Israeli army is falling on innocent civilians, as the Israeli government say they are fighting terrorists. The Palestinians have seen over 90% of their territory stolen over the last half century, and the armed robbery continues, yet when they resist (with whatever means at their disposal) they are branded terrorists who should be assassinated, along with their neighbours and children. Many describe the state of Israel the real terrorists. Despite the fact that Robeson was a real lover of Jewish people, I am willing to bet that he might concur, were he around today. He would not be relying on the BBC or the rest of the mainstream media for his information, but would, I think, listen out for the voices of peace drowned out by the bombs. He would still have lots of Jewish friends, such as the many who belong to organisations like The Friends of Palestine. Let's listen to them and support them. After all, as Robeson himself said, "The Artist Must Take Sides". I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer, Producer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked until recently as an architect and property developer, with a special but as yet frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. As a baritone, he has sung as soloist in British concert halls accompanied by orchestra, and has also sung in Germany, Ireland and Nigeria. He has performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON won the Argus Angel Award for Artistic Excellence and Best Male Performer Award at the 2008 Brighton Festival Fringe, two Merit Awards for Excellence in London in 2010 and three awards at the London Ontario Fringe last June. He has performed the play around the UK, the United States of America, Canada and Nigeria, and at New York's Carnegie Hall in February 2012 for his 50th birthday. His other piece titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE: a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with Spirituals has also been performed in three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool's International Slavery Museum. A song from his CD, RECALLING ROBESON is featured as the July 2008 song of the month on the Labor Notes website.

Michael Conliffe, Piano and original incidental music

Mike started playing piano by ear as child, playing gospel in church and later discovering Jazz, which he went on to study at Liverpool Community College and Leeds college of Music. As well as playing regularly in Jazz festivals round the UK, Mike has toured both coasts of America with Call Mr Robeson, culminating in the February 2012 performance at Carnegie Hall with Tayo. Mike also performs in another two-hander, a Jazz drama God Bless the Child about Billie Holliday, in which he also acts. He plays regularly as soloist and with Swing and Function bands at weddings, other celebrations and at corporate events. Mike also teaches piano to aspiring Pop, Blues and Jazz musicians and to singer/song writers.
