

CALL MR. ROBESON: A life, with songs.

Written and Performed by Tayo Aluko, with Roland, Piano

Tristan Bates Theatre, Covent Garden, London, Wednesday 9 October, 2013.

Greetings, and Welcome. One striking aspect of the recent Shadow Cabinet reshuffles was the description of one particular portfolio change as a demotion: that of Shadow Minister for International Development. It was the same when the current government minister was transferred. The posts of Foreign Secretary, Defence Minister, Chancellor and the like tend to be more desirable. Knowing some of what they do however, one could get a rather jaundiced view of where priorities of governments like ours lie, why so little actual development happens internationally, and why conflict and destruction reign instead. The global arms trade is the most lucrative in the world, and Western governments of all colours constantly encircle the globe peddling weapons of death and destruction to all kinds of unsavoury people, at great profit. Was it so long ago that as war was breaking out in the Middle East, our own government was leading a high-profile “trade mission” round the region with arms traders netting billions that those countries could ill afford? Furthermore, the corruption that surrounds the trade (fuelled by the West itself) is quite staggering. The annual budget of the International Development Department on the other hand to any “developing” country will however (speaking unscientifically) probably be swallowed up by one single shipment of arms to that country, or the kick-backs that government officials and warlords pocket. International Development, as an arm of government is seen as being involved in the tawdry and relatively unimportant business of aid. Surely it should be about fair trade – in positive, creative things, for that matter: the exchange of goods and services to mutual benefit; the removal of systems that cause millions to labour in conditions close to slavery so that we can enjoy cheap goods in our throw-away society. For a ministerial portfolio which should be interested in promoting workers’ rights worldwide to be seen as so unimportant is not only an insult to workers of the world, but to workers here too, for the systems that drive wages and conditions downward abroad operate here, and will continue to succeed if we continue to allow our leaders to carry on the way they do. That’s what Paul Robeson stood for, and so should more of us. I hope you enjoy the show.

Tayo Aluko. Writer, Performer. Tayo was born in Nigeria, and now lives in Liverpool. He worked previously as an architect and property developer, with a special but frustrated interest in eco-friendly construction. He has fronted orchestras as baritone soloist in British concert halls, and has also performed lead roles in such operas and musicals as Nabucco, Kiss Me Kate and Anything Goes. CALL MR ROBESON won three awards at the London Ontario Fringe in June 2012 and Best Solo Show at the Stratford UK Fringe this June. He has performed the play around the UK, Canada, Nigeria, Jamaica and the USA (including New York’s Carnegie Hall in February 2012). His other piece titled FROM BLACK AFRICA TO THE WHITE HOUSE - a talk about Black Political Resistance, illustrated with Spirituals, has also been performed on three continents. He researched, wrote and narrated to camera a piece on West African History before the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade, which forms part of the permanent exhibit at Liverpool’s International Slavery Museum. His 15-minute play, HALF MOON, which also deals with ancient Africa, has been performed several times in the UK.

Michael Conliffe, Piano and original incidental music.

Mike started playing piano by ear as child, playing gospel in church and later discovering Jazz, which he went on to study at Liverpool Community College and Leeds college of Music. As well as playing regularly in Jazz festivals round the UK, Mike has toured both coasts of America with Call Mr Robeson, culminating in the February 2012 performance at Carnegie Hall with Tayo. Mike also performs in another two-hander, a Jazz drama God Bless the Child about Billie Holliday. He plays regularly as soloist and with Swing and Function bands at weddings, other celebrations and at corporate events. Mike also teaches piano to aspiring Pop, Blues and Jazz musicians and to singer/song writers.
